THESIS DIRECTOR

You have around 3 months after your registration in the Program to communicate to the Academic Board your research line, and who will be your Thesis Director. The thesis can be supervised by any Spanish or foreign Doctor, having proven experience in the research field, regardless of the origin of his/her university, center or institution. For these purposes, 'proven experience' in the research field means the fulfillment of at least one of the following requirements:

- Being the main researcher in the last 6 years of a research project financed by an open, public, competitive call, not including the university own funding

- Proving the authority or co-authority of at least 3 publications in journals included on the Journal Citations Report (JCR) in the last 6 years
- Proving the authority or co-authority of patent exploitation
- Having directed a doctoral thesis in the last 5 years, that has produced, at least, one publication in any journal indexed in JCR
- Have recognized, at least, one six-year period (sexenio) of research activity

If you choose a foreign Director, you will need also a tutor belonging to the PhD Program. Most of the times, the Program Coordinator at your university plays that role.

The thesis can be co-directed for academic reasons. The co-direction must be previously authorized by the Academic Board, and the requirements for the thesis Co-Directors are the same as for the Directors.

THESIS WITH 'INTERNATIONAL MENTION'

To get this mention, there are some requirements:

- A stay of at least 3 months in an abroad institution: it must be approved and guided by the PhD Director and the Academic Board. It cannot be performed in Spain or in the student origin country.
- Two reports will be required to defend the thesis: one from a member of the host center, and a second one from another researcher, not belonging to any institution directly related to the student.
- The thesis must be defended in English.
- The thesis committee must count on a foreign member, that could belong to the host institution but cannot be the supervisor of the student during his/her stay.

OTHER USEFUL INFORMATION AND RECOMMENDATIONS:

- These information may be updated in the future. You will be able to find its newest version in the Doctorate Program's website on the "Download" tab.
- You will need to publish at least one paper in JCR or Scopus indexed journals (or, at least, having the paper accepted for publication) in order to get ready to defend your thesis project. You can write it in collaboration with other authors, usually being one of them your supervisor(s).

Universidade de Vigo

 UNIVERSIDADE DA CORUÑA

With the collaboration of:  ECOBAS

- You must use your University affiliation in all your publications during the PhD period. If you belong to a research group and/or center, you can use its affiliations as well. Contact your group/center to know its specific affiliation rules.
- The thesis can be written in four languages: Spanish, Galician, Portuguese or English, but since you will need to publish in JCR/Scopus journals, it is highly recommended to write it in English.
- You must record all your activities during your PhD period in your Virtual Secretariat, such as seminars and congresses attendance and presentations, training, working papers, publications... The merits uploaded need to be approved, first by your supervisor, and then by the Academic Board. These records will be used for the yearly evaluation.
- There are research seminars programmed all year (except in August). Although its attendance is not compulsory, it is highly recommended. The seminars are announced in ECOBAS web, where you can subscribe to receive e-mail notifications.
